Speeding Tickets Show Increase Here, Over State

Motorists in the county are beginning to ignore those "Speed Limit 55" signs and are increasing their speed, according to DPS troopers stationed in Milam.

With the easing of the gasoline shortage, apparently a lot of motorists feel that the present speed limit is too low, and are reverting to high-speed travel.

Milton Wright, one of the Milam troopers, said speeding tickets issued in the county are running about like they were before the speed limit was lowered. He said there is a large increase in speeding tickets issued state-wide, with gains of from 10 to 20 percent reported.

Wright said speeders are clocked at from 60 to 80 miles per hour, with more breaking the limit at 65 than at 75.

He added that the lull in tickets issued after the speed limit was lowered held for a while, but travelers keep inching up the speedometer, with resulting increase in traffic tickets.

Charge Filed In Car Theft

A charge of car theft was filed in Justice of the Peace Jess Brock's court Monday against a juvenile in connection with the theft of a car belonging to the Cameron school district.

The charge was filed by DPS trooper Milton Wright of Cameron.

The car was reportedly stolen Sunday night from Branchville and was found wrecked later on that night on a county road two miles south of Branchville.

Council Hears Reports, Cites Turner, Hickman

The city council meeting Tuesday evening heard a report and tentative budget for the public works department, saw two former councilmen honored for service, and heard a report on proposed purchase of Christmas decorations for the downtown mall.

Bill Dase, public works superintendent, gave a verbal report to the council on projects and priorities for the department and showed a tentative list of budget items for that department.

He listed a number of projects that are being planned, including purchases of new equipment, work at the two parks including installation of new equipment at City Park, fencing the city maintenance yard, drainage in the Green Addition, on N. Houston at 15th and West 6th to West 8th, tree trimming, and street improvements. In line with street work, the city secretary was instructed to draw up a list of all persons who have paid for street paving in their area.

Mayor Gene Blake presented plaques to former councilmen Lester Turner and Starrett Hickman, in appreciation of the service they rendered the city during their years on the council. Turner was on the council from 1963 until 1974, and Hickman from 1962 until 1974.

A. W. McCullin gave recommendations from the city planning commission which call for the city to spend $2,000 on Christmas decorations for the mall this year, and include funds each year in the budget for adding to the decorations.

McCullin said a nativity scene would probably be used instead of a giant Santa and a new tree will be planted this fall to replace the center tree which died. The tree will be used as a permanent Christmas tree, he said.

In other business, council authorized payment of expenses for three members of the council to attend a workshop in Dallas on new federal programs.

Police Chief Felipe Martinez was instructed to get quotes on a service contract for the city's police radio equipment.

Councilman Lincoln Mondrik said new signs for around the schools need to be installed and also that the police should patrol the school when children are in the area. Martinez said he did not have enough men to patrol the area if other calls came in at the same time, but he would do his best.

A drainage problem at the rear of Safeway was discussed with Supt. Dase to check and make recommendations.

School Starts Monday, Lunch Schedules Set

Cameron public schools will open at 8 a.m. Monday with buses making regular runs, Supt. Buddy Dulin said. Due to the hot weather a short schedule of 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. will be used for the first few weeks of school.

School lunch prices will be the same as last year. Grades K-2 will pay 40 cents, grades 3-12 will pay 50 cents, and adults will be charged 60 cents. These prices will be in effect as long as the income meets the increased costs of food, Supt. Dulin said.

Lunch schedules for the start of school have been announced, subject to change when the school goes from its beginning short schedule to the longer one of a few weeks from now.

Junior high students will have two lunch periods which will be designated on their class schedules they receive when they register for class.

The first lunch period on the short schedule will be from 10:20 until 11 a.m. and the second period from 11:05 until 11:45. The periods for the long schedule will be from 11:15 until 12:02 and second from 12:07 until 12:55.

Ada Henderson lunch period on the short schedule will be from 11:05 until 11:50 a.m. Lunch period for the long schedule will be announced later.

For Yoe High, lunch period for the short schedule will be from 11:55 until 12:25 and for the long schedule from 12:05 and until 12:50.

Ben Milam students will have a lunch period of from 10:30 to 11:10 for the short schedule. The long schedule will be announced later.

Constitution Stands Up To Watergate Strain

By George Short

Reuter--The general feeling--after the bloodless toppling of perhaps the world's most powerful man--is that the bewigged 18th century gentlemen who invented the American constitution did a pretty good job.

But the constitution has been under severe strain in the two years of the Watergate scandal, and during this time many political scientists and observers wondered whether it needed brushing up.

The doubts, however, have been buried at least temporarily and everyone is sighing with relief since Richard Nixon resigned from the presidency.

Americans are viewing with new respect the founders of their constitution, who in 1789 completed a set of rules for a new country which had formerly been a cluster of British colonies.

"Our constitution works," declared Gerald Ford after being sworn in as the 38th president of the United States.

The New York Daily News told its readers: "Our System--based as it is on laws and institutions which have endured well nigh two centuries--can weather this crisis and continue strong and unimpaired."

The New York suburban daily New-day echoed a rise in optimism among Americans by saying there were prospects now for a period of stability.

There was even talk in the New York Times of a finest hour of American Democracy, and Times writer Clifton Daniel said: "A president has been deposed but the republic endures."

He noted, however, that the removal of an American president required drastic surgery, not just a shift in the political balance as in the parliamentary democracies.

Daniel thought this had done a minimum of visible damage--but his statement, reflecting the current relief, was a far cry from the frustration and anxiety in many of the countless Watergate debates in previous months.

Back in the darker Watergate days, many people were saying the constitution was failing and the country being torn apart. They asked why the painful surgery was necessary, and often compared their constitution to the parliamentary ones.

In a parliamentary system such as Britain's, the chief executive is not head of state like the American president, but a prime minister serving under a figurehead-monarch.

The prime minister is also the leader of a party, or alliance of parties, which has won a majority in Parliament. If it loses control of Parliament, a government falls, even if its term of office is not complete.

Thus if a government of this style became tainted by a scandal as big as Watergate, its parliamentary supporters would desert and it would swiftly fall, critics of the American system have maintained.

But America's president is elected separately and does not rely on his party commanding a majority in Congress. So how do you get rid of him, asked the critics, if he won't go?

Frustration often surfaced during the two years of Watergate. New York City saw an angry demonstration last autumn, for instance, in which marchers shouted Kick the Bum Out! But admitted feeling helpless and criticized their constitution.

On the last Fourth of July, anniversary of America's independence declaration, a drinker in a Broadway bar raised his glass for a toast surprisingly to the English king whose army the America revolutionaries had fought.

"To George III," he said. "At least we were able to get rid of him."

The founders of the American constitution used a fashionable philosophical idea of the time known as the separation of powers. The seats of power would be independent of, and act as restraints, upon, each other. There would be an executive, legislature and judiciary.

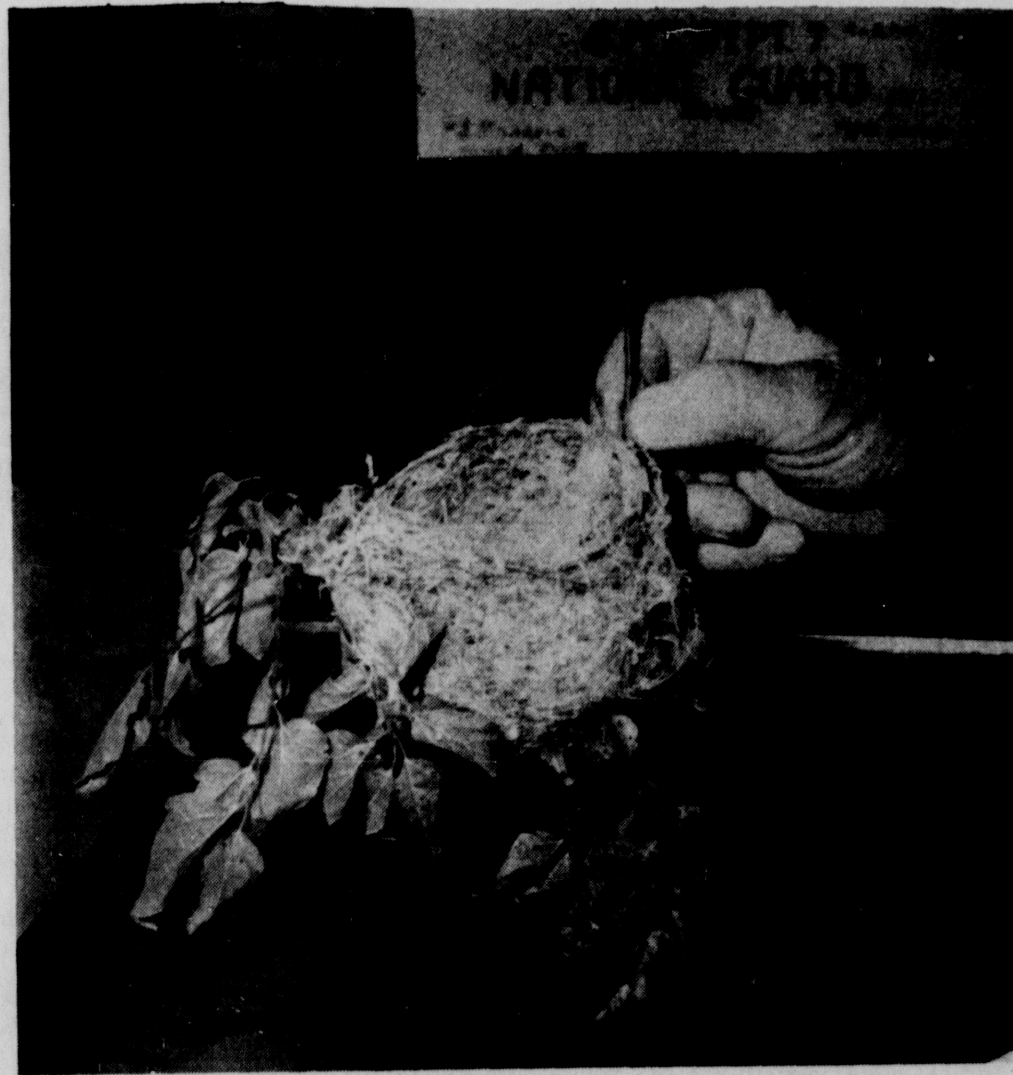

So the battle of Watergate was fought not within a parliament but from separate castles--and the executive castle, the White House, seemed impregnable right up until the last few weeks.

Mr. Nixon's administration appeared to be able to sidestep repeated demands from judges for missing tapes of Watergate--related White House conversations.

And while the House Judiciary Committee slowly investigated the possibility of impeachment, Mr. Nixon was flying to world capitals in pursuit of his foreign policy which he said was to ensure world peace.

He returned to this country looking like a statesman far above the squalid matters being discussed at home.

But the constitutional process was going on so relentlessly that it came almost as a surprise when the House Committee, watched nationwide on television, finally voted to recommend impeachment.

INTRICATE weaving by wild canaries is shown in this nest, found on a farm near Cameron. Horse and cow tail hairs were used to produce a closely woven and interlaced thing of beauty. The birds even lined the bottom of the nest with cotton for a soft place for young ones.

Ford And Rockefeller

Nelson Rockefeller is Gerald Ford's choice for vice-president. At mid-60, Rockefeller is closer to his long-held ambition of a presidential nomination than elective politics have allowed.

For that matter, so is President Ford, selected from the House minority leadership by former President Richard Nixon, who also chose a vice-president running mate from several Southern possibilities in the 1968 GOP Convention. He was Spiro Agnew of Maryland, now back in Maryland. In perspective, Mr. Nixon will be found to have influenced Rockefeller's political career more than by his recent resignation.

By leaving California after a gubernatorial defeat in 1962, the former vice-president moved to New York and by weight of experience and drive contained the enormous liberal establishmentarian's powerbase while Rockefeller was governor of New York, and by most standards a good one. Nixon won the '68 nomination while practicing law in New York City.

Rockefeller recently had resigned the governor's post after 15 years in office, most of four four-year terms. It was the same base Franklin Roosevelt used in 1932 to defeat Herbert Hoover and begin a four-term presidency.

The former New York governor was actively planning a run for the GOP presidential nomination in 1976. President Ford may have saved Rockefeller a lot of time.

California Gov. Ronald Reagan and Rockefeller were looked upon as too old for the nomination, particularly since Ford at 61 was now in office and odds-on to be handed a nomination in 1976.

Now Rockefeller is a vice-presidential nominee, likely to receive easy confirmation in the House and Senate. The new President has already searched out Rockefeller's political closet or a nomination in the wake of Watergate never would have occurred.

And from the early signs of the Ford presidency, we may have seen the introduction of the 1976 GOP ticket, Ford and Rockefeller: the honest, career Midwestern political craftsman and the polished, wealthy New York governor with the economic clout to finance a campaign as heady as the Kennedy triumph of 1960.

House Speaker Carl Albert, a Democrat, gave a sign of Ford's timeliness after hearing the President's inaugural speech, saying (in paraphrase): "We better not underestimate Jerry Ford. He is honest and this speech shows courage."

Ford's selection of Rockefeller shows savvy. George Bush, of Houston, may have been too close a presidential candidate for Ford's liking. He is about 50, young by White House standards.

Is Ford a GOP Harry Truman, president of "all the people?" Not quite populist, Ford chose a vice-president that brought in a perspective otherwise beyond his administration.

He is counting on his Midwest openness to keep the White House open. Nelson Rockefeller provides state-level expertise and an international name.

The collapse of the Nixon Administration, in effect, brought them together.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

Rep. Richard F. Vander Veen (Mich) "I rise to introduce legislation which I believe could provide significant congressional initiative and leadership in getting America's economy moving again, help control the fires of inflation, and put 900,000 Americans back to work performing jobs this Nation needs to have done. I'm very pleased to be joined in this effort by 37 of my House colleagues..."

"In brief, Mr. Speaker, the bill adds a new title VI to the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act CETA which authorized 900,000 public service employment jobs throughout the nation. The focus of the bill is on areas of severe unemployment -- in excess of 7 percent..."

"The net $2.9 billion cost of the bill is reached by subtracting $1.3 billion in increased tax revenues, and $2.1 billion in decreased unemployment, welfare and other payments from the gross cost of $6.3 billion. This means that we would be paying approximately $3,100 net per job..."

"In gross terms, it costs roughly $7,000 to fund an average public service employment job... Funding 900,000 at $7,000 per job would cost, an annual basis, a total of $6.3 billion. However, not all the expenditure for a public service job is a cost to the taxpayer. There are significant offsetting savings. Much of the money that will be spent on wages will not be spent on unemployment insurance payments, welfare and aid to dependent children, food stamps, medical aid, manpower training, and other assistance programs. Also a great deal of the expense will be returned to Federal, State and local governments in the form of income, sales and excise taxes..."

"Unemployment has remained intolerably high during the past 5 years. Several job-training programs, designed to help those receiving assistance, unemployment, or other publicly funded benefits, found out they were being trained for jobs that just did not exist in the private sector of the economy..."

CRUMP'S GRASS
ROOTS COMMENT

Rep. Vander Veen's bill is H. R. 16151. You may, or may not, agree with his approach to easing the unemployment problem, nationwide.

Investigation Moves Into Joint Committee

Investigations of the Huntsville prison siege and shootout and of right to privacy issues moved into the spotlight this week.

A joint legislative committee on prison reform slated a Friday (August 23) meeting to discuss the Huntsville tragedy.

The prison violence, which followed convict Fred Gomez Carrasco's seizure of 13 hostages, is also being probed by the Department of Public Safety and a Walker County grand jury.

Meanwhile, a select senate sub-committee is moving out with a broad study of invasion of privacy issues. Public hearings will follow initial staff inquiries into alleged improper surveillance by state agencies and non-governmental groups as well.

The sub-committee was appointed after Robert Pomeroy of Farmers Branch complained he was made the subject of a DPS intelligence agent's inquiry because he led opposition to a nuclear power plant at Glen Rose.

Many other rumors followed -- including one that DPS had made checks on staff aides and some members of the joint committee on prison reform, and another that the agency had investigated job applications for private businesses.

DPS denied improper use of its investigation procedures and said its intelligence information is available only to local, state and federal law enforcement personnel.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe asked for a full report on why and how DPS conducts intelligence investigations and assurances that practices comply with state and federal law.

ALLOWABLE STANDS -- The Texas oil production allowable was retained at 100 per cent of potential for the 30th straight month.

Railroad Commission Chairman Jim Langdon said all states must "maximize" efforts to solve energy needs.

"Texas is continuing to strain to do its best for the state and the nation to meet the demands for energy," said Langdon. "We need the total cooperation of the entire nation to meet goals."

The commission chairman suggested states which have oil offshore should drill for it and those which can build offshore facilities to handle supertankers should be willing to do so.

CONVENTION ON -- A U. S. district judge in San Antonio rejected a suit by Jewish delegates to delay the State Democratic Convention here September 17.

The long-standing controversy over postponing the convention arose from the fact the meeting date falls this year on a high Jewish holy day, Rosh Hashana.

Judge Adrian A. Spears said he saw no violation of constitutional rights in refusal of the State Democratic Executive Committee to alter the date.

Plaintiffs, however, moved to continue their fight with an appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

AUDIT ORDERED -- Texas Water Rights Commission ordered Duval County Conservation and Reclamation District to prepare an audit of its affairs through a certified public accountant.

Chairman Joe D. Carter said federal court cases had raised questions of propriety of fund use. The district was directed to submit the name of a qualified CPA by September 15.

AG OPINIONS -- Texas has no more enforceable laws regulating abortion, but may regulate facilities and services in hospitals performing abortions, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

• Physicians do not have to be physically present at all times to supervise employees performing physical therapy services without a license from the board of physical therapy examiners.

• Information on Menard school employees' salaries is public and is covered by the open records act.

CONTROLS FEARED -- Air control officials are concerned that federal land use planning controls may be applied based on air quality considerations.

They think Environmental Protection Agency permits for highway modification, airports and parking lots may have a major effect on economic growth and development of Texas.

The new regulation, effective January 1, launches a permit system with applications requiring information on indirect air pollution effect of proposed facilities.

Charles Barden, executive director of Texas Air Control Board, said the state cannot enforce federal regulations without parallel state authority.

DISTRICT HEARING SET -- Texas Water Rights Commission will hold a public hearing October 2 here to consider dissolving 29 inactive water districts.

The commission can dissolve any district which is not active for five consecutive years and which has no bond debt.

Districts involved in the hearing reach from East Texas to the Texas Panhandle and from South Texas and the Gulf Coast to the northern boundary of the state.

CROPS DAMAGED -- Drought already has taken a heavy toll on Texas' 1974 wheat, cotton and sorghum crops, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White reported last week.

Wheat yields have been on the decline since January -- to the present total of 52.8 million bushels, a 45.8 million bushel dropoff from the 1973 record yield.

Cotton production is off 1.6 million bales from 1973, and the grain sorghum production is projected at 295 million bushels, a 122 million bushel decrease from 1973.

ENERGY CRISIS DOUBTED -- A Houston and Colorado County survey by the governor's energy advisory council showed Texans think the energy crisis of recent months was phony.

The questionnaires indicated citizens doubt truth of information from both the government and oil companies on energy supplies and judge the situation largely on availability of oil and gas products.

SHORT SNORTS

Exxon spokesmen claimed Houston Ship Channel pollution rules are unfair.

Dr. L. Harlan Fort of Georgetown is new Texas Education Agency deputy commissioner for educational programs and personnel development.

August 31 is the deadline for cotton stalk destruction under the pink bollworm control act for Cameron County and lower portions of Willacy, Hidalgo and Starr Counties.

Nineteen applications for permits to sell $6.7 million worth of securities in Texas were filed with State Securities Board during the last two weeks.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear Editor:

No doubt about it, President Ford hit the nail on the head when he said inflation is Public Enemy No. 1.

At a rate of 10 per cent increase a year, inflation, anybody can see, doubles the price of everything every 10 years, which means that in 100 years a $3,000 car will cost $30,000, a $25,000 house will cost $250,000, and a millionaire will be just above the poverty level.

Obviously this can't go on, but how to stop it is not only a horse of a different color but a breed that has not been captured, if it exists at all.

Some $60,000 - a - year economists are saying the way to stop inflation is to cut back on everything and everybody except $60,000 - a - year economists. Others say cut down on Federal spending, except in the Cameron area.

Unfortunately the Constitution fails to mention inflation but you could not expect the Founding Fathers to think of everything. Therefore, I have an idea. We've got to have an Amendment to the Constitution controlling inflation.

Pick out a time when everything is about right, when everybody is making about what he thinks he ought to have; when interest rates are about right -- not so high a man can't afford to buy on time and not so low bankers will close up and try farming; when groceries are priced about right, including potatoe chips and soda water; when meat is fairly low in the market and high on the hoof; when the military budget is about at the right level to scare Russia and China without bankrupting the U. S. ; I say, all we have to do is pick out a time when everything seems to be just about right, and immediately freeze it all into the Constitution. From that date on nothing can go up or come down.

This of course will require a commission to decide when the exact, right moment has arrived. I don't wish to serve on that commission.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Loyalty Oath for Teachers?

May a public school teacher be required to take a loyalty oath? Yes, provided that the oath stays within constitutional bounds.

Consider the case of a high school teacher who balked at swearing to uphold the state and federal constitutions.

"I just don't like the whole idea of loyalty oaths," she explained in a court hearing. "They are an infringement upon my freedom of conscience."

But the judge said this kind of an oath was nothing more than is expected of most public officials, up to and including the President. He quoted the following comment from the United States Supreme Court:

"Obviously the framers of the Constitution thought that an affirmation of minimum loyalty to the government was worth the price of whatever deprivation of individual freedom of conscience was involved."

Nevertheless, some oaths have been thrown out by the courts for going too far.

Another case involved a declaration that the teacher had never lent "aid, support, or advice" to the Communist Party. Wouldn't this apply, a court wondered, to everyone who had ever supported any cause that the Communist Party had also happened to support?

The court concluded that it was unconstitutional to require an oath "in terms so vague that men of common intelligence must guess at its meaning."

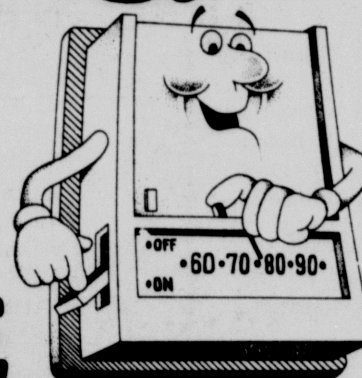

Also rejected was a requirement that teachers submit an annual list of every organization to which they had either belonged or contributed during the previous five years.

The court felt that such a requirement intruded upon the teacher's right of free association. The court said there were all sorts of outside relationships that "could have no possible bearing upon the teacher's occupational fitness."

Reducing plan for energy users

Plan E How to save electricity when using air conditioning

Central Systems

1. Keep equipment at top operating efficiency. Have it checked seasonally by qualified serviceman.
2. Check filter every 30 days. Dirty filters cause equipment to use excessive electricity. If filter is permanent, clean by manufacturer's directions; if it's disposable, it should be replaced when dirty.
3. Keep furniture, draperies away from air outlets and returns. Clean often.
4. Close draperies and blinds to keep out direct sunlight.
5. Keep fireplace damper closed. Draft pulls cool air up the chimney.
6. Proper home insulation keeps the cool in, cuts energy use. Attic ventilation helps, too. Insulation questions? Call TP&L.
7. Shade on roof and walls can reduce energy needed to cool. But trim trees, shrubs away from outside compressor unit. Keep it free of leaves, debris. If air flow is blocked, unit uses more energy.
8. Weatherstrip doors and windows; caulk cracks to prevent drafts and cool air loss.
9. Keep windows closed. Open outside doors as little as possible.
10. Set thermostat on 78° and leave it there. Turn unit off if you'll be away from home several days.

Window Units

Follow all above suggestions, plus these:

11. Buy unit with highest "energy efficiency ratio" (EER). Uses less electricity to cool. If EER is not on sales tag, ask for it or figure it yourself. Divide "wattage" into "BTU" capacity. Both figures are on unit.

12. Place unit where it'll get as little direct sun as possible.
13. Aim air outlets at lower half of doorway to next room to allow warm air from that room to enter at the doorway for recirculation.
14. Never vent air conditioner into garage. Ventilation is usually too poor for top performance of your unit.

Conserve electricity and you help conserve one or more of the fuels needed to produce it: natural gas, coal and oil. Conserve fuels and you help assure that there will be enough to meet essential needs for electricity in the future.

When you pass a TP&L office, warehouse, generating plant or other facility, you'll see that we've turned off all non-essential lighting. And, in as many other ways as possible, TP&L is reducing its own uses of electricity.

If you would like additional information on conserving electricity, call or see the Customer Service Representative in the TP&L Office.

Becky's Corner

Remember to eat a good breakfast every day. People who skip this meal are likely to feel more nervous, be inefficient, and have slower mental reactions during the morning. A good breakfast consists of a citrus fruit or juice, cereal or eggs, or meat toast and milk. If your family doesn't like typical breakfast foods, serve something offbeat such as wieners on a bun, peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, even macaroni & cheese. The idea is to get something nutritious in them.

Man has always wanted to look ahead. This is what economists have always tried to do. Look ahead and see what's in the offering.

What are cattle prices going to do? What are fertilizer prices going to do? Why can exporters get more money from farmers abroad for fertilizer than they can get for it here in Texas? How can foreign farmers pay more for fertilizer than we can and then ship their milk and beef back to us at less than we can produce it for?

How can beef sell at a profitable price in August of 1973 and then sell for disastrous prices in 1974? Why didn't we know that prices were going to break?

I know a farm that is constantly advised by economists on how and when to sell their cotton, milo, and calves and yet they got caught with a bunch of cattle, with the advice of hold'em they're going up.

The cowmen of California and Colorado sued some big chain food stores for manipulating the cattle market and a San Francisco court ruled in favor of the cowmen to the tune of $32 million cold cash bucks. Of course they are going to appeal.

Is farmer and rancher relegated to a poverty price, a completely unstable market? Is farmer and rancher the only business that goes down to the bank and borrows money to make a crop or raise a bunch of yearlings and yet doesn't have the slightest idea of who, where, how, or what he's going to get for them?

These and other just as hard questions to answer are going through farmers' minds now. They have absolutely no political clout. They have no numbers. They have no way of controlling the price of that which they purchase.

The question of who controls agriculture, as if someone should control it, is a moot question. Providers of the products that farmers need to produce, are, at least right now, controlling agriculture. Look at the shortages if you don't think they are controlling agriculture. They raise their prices because of increased costs, farmers can do nothing about increased costs for the reason that others set the market on their products not farmers themselves.

The obvious foolish, not thought out statement of why doesn't he get out of farming if it's that tough, can be answered very easily. What else can a 60 year old farmer do? Does he wipe windshields at age 60? Does he start nightwatching some industry's property at age 60? What else can he do?

Besides, Preachers are not the only ones dedicated to their professions.

That's another ham in the smokehouse.

Winter Pastures Vital For Keeping Good Stock

By Bill McCutchen

High fertilizer prices and low cow prices may have you wondering about planting winter pastures this year, but have you considered the alternatives to a good high quality winter pasture?

The alternatives as I see it are selling your own while prices are low or feeding high priced and very possibly, low quality hay or feeding range cubes or similar purchased energy and protein. These alternatives will probably be more expensive than investing $50 to $60 an acre in high quality, high tonnage winter pastures that will be about 16 percent crude protein or quite similar to most range cubes in that respect.

One alternative for cattlemen with farming equipment is to plant small grains such as oats, wheat, ryegrass or triticale on a prepared seedbed.

As wheat prices move upward, many farmers on blackland or bottomland or bottom land farms are using wheat for winter pasture and also a cash crop. Some producers over the last two years have reported grazing wheat most of the winter until February 15 or March 1 and still harvesting 25 to 30 bushels of wheat per acre. The winter grazing will usually pay most of your fertilizer, seed and land preparation expenses and the grain harvest is a bonus. Another plus many farmers see in this program is the opportunity to utilize land that is rather heavily infested with johnsongrass without much competition and the land can be cleaned of johnsongrass the following summer with cultivation and herbicides such as MSMA or DSMA.

Another alternative that works quite well in the sandyland area of Milam County was demonstrated last fall and winter by Morris Coward of the Marlow Community near Cameron.

Morris' plan was to run 24 animal units on a total of 45 acres the year around. Some 30 acres of this place was in coastal with 15 acres in common bermuda. This was obviously sufficient acreage for these animals during the summer with adequate fertilizer and normal rainfall.

To supply the winter grazing needed Morris' plan was to use 15 acres of coastal for winter pastures. This amounted to one-half acre per animal unit to be used as limited grazing.

To do this he planned to remove the bermuda growth by September 20th by baling hay. This could also be accomplished by shredding or close grazing. He would then disc the coastal stubble lightly a couple of times to set the coastal back and expose bare soil. On about September 25th he hoped to plant Gulf Ryegrass at a rate of 20# per acre.

Because of problems in getting custom baling the entire schedule was delayed and the field was not planted until October 19th. The land was seeded and fertilized at the same time using a broadcast fertilizer rig and mixing the ryegrass with the fertilizer. 40 - 80 - 80 was used at planting time followed by 50 pounds of Nitrogen as soon as the ryegrass came up to a good stand and then 40 pounds of Nitrogen per acre in mid February to maintain growth.

Those 15 acres gave Mr. Coward high quality winter pasture which was used sparingly throughout the winter to supplement protein requirements while the other 30 acres of dry bermuda was used as a filler and a low quality standing hay.

Because of the late start the ryegrass did not furnish as much early winter grazing as hoped for, but it supplemented the dry pasture well. In the late winter and early spring cattle were given free choice grazing on the winter pasture most of the time.

This is a demonstration that can be repeated time and time again in the sandyland areas of Milam County. Fertilizer costs have made this practice somewhat less lucrative, but is still one of the cheapest methods of wintering cattle when handled correctly.

Some of the oat varieties that would be good for winter grazing include Coler 234, Coronado, Cortez, New Nortax, TAM 0-301 and TAM 0-312 and Florida 501.

Wheat varieties that would furnish grazing and also be suitable for harvesting would include Sturdy, Milam, Fox, Gaddo and Agent.

Barley varieties recommended would include 7 Amber 401, Era and Rogers.

CANDIDATE ON TOUR - Bob Holt, right, Republican candidate for state treasurer, stopped in Cameron Tuesday and visited with

Holt Stops Here On Texas Tour

Agent Urges Blackleg Vaccination

A change in the State Treasurer's office should be a priority concern for every Texas in 1974 regardless of party affiliation, Republican nominee Bob Holt told a news conference here Tuesday.

"That office and its vital influence on our state has been obscured too long while the incumbent has made it his private preserve for 33 years", Holt said. "Texans can no longer afford to have a stagnant Treasurer's office out of step with the modern-day needs of our state".

Holt said that operation of the office today looks like a "cracker barrel" relic from the thirties complete with spittoon, when it should be a model of fiscal progressiveness and efficiency for all other state departments and agencies.

"The incumbent took office in 1941, when I was eight years old - before World War II. If reelected, he would be 74 years of age before stepping down", Holt pointed out.

"A reevaluation of management of the state's vast funds is long past due", Holt said. "The most serious consequence of the antiquated practices of the office is in loss of revenue to the state. Unless changes are made, the result will be a hastening of the day when a state income tax of some sort is required".

Holt said that he believes his experience as a successful banker, a background in public accounting, and his familiarity with computer operation make him uniquely qualified to hold the post. He pledged an all-out race for the office and said that he already has received a great deal of support.

"It is obvious from recent elections that a great many Texans have already recognized the need for a change", Holt commented. "Two years ago, Maurice Angly received 46% of the vote against the incumbent, and in the Democratic primary this spring, his opponent campaigned only briefly and received almost 43% of the vote".

Holt was here as part of a whirlwind schedule of campaign visits which will take him to most of the state's population centers by week's end.

State campaign headquarters for Holt have been opened at 1011 Congress Avenue in Austin.

Cases of blackleg in cattle are increasing over Texas, according to the Texas Veterinary Medical Laboratory at Texas A&M University. Assistant County Extension Agent Rodney Kruse urges cattlemen to take the necessary precautions to protect young animals from the fatal disease.

Raising calves without immunization is hazardous, emphasizes Rodney Kruse. Most cattlemen realize the danger of blackleg and routinely vaccinate their calves. However, some become complacent because they don't hear of blackleg outbreaks and therefore fail to vaccinate.

Rodney points out that vaccinating calves too early can cause blackleg. Calves up to three months of age fail to develop a lasting immunity. Vaccination should be at the age of four months and should be repeated annually until the animal is at least two years old.

Therefore, before beginning a preventive vaccination program, Rodney suggests a visit to the local veterinarian for advice on disease problems in the particular area. Certain vaccine combinations are available at a relatively low cost that will protect calves from a series of diseases.

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

Swimming is more than a sport in Texas -- it's a way of life which the Texas State Department of Health recognizes and has a part in through training of swimming pool operators. Thousands of new pools will be constructed this year throughout the nation. In Texas at this moment, well over 50,000 pools are attracting swimmers like bees to a flower. This is all to the good, because swimming lends itself to social adjustment. It teaches coordination and builds stamina and character. A child who overcomes fear of water has learned courage. But there are also elements of risk. This accelerated interest in swimming creates hazards to life and limb, and dangers of disease transmission. That's why the State Health Department's regional offices conduct courses to teach pool operators the various skills of their jobs. "Short schools" for pool operators are concentrated during the months of spring and early summer, the intention being to enroll as many operators as possible before hot weather and overflow crowds make it hard for them to get away from their work. Co-sponsored by regional and local health departments courses consist of six hours of intensive technical and practical instruction. It covers such things as how to disinfect the water, and how to control water acidity. Water acidity, incidentally, is the factor which causes swimmers' eyes to burn, rather than chlorine as is popularly supposed. The course also covers pool safety, bathhouse sanitation, and the various filtering systems used by modern pools. How important are swimming pools as links in the chain of disease transmission? Eye, ear, nose and throat, skin and intestinal infections are among the most common conditions spread by swimming pools. Typhoid fever and diarrheal diseases have been traced to neighborhood pools. Most prevalent, however, is ringworm of the feet, commonly called "athlete's foot." It is not contracted in pool water, but by walking on wet walks and floors on which the spores of the infection flourish. In well operated pools there is little chance of contracting any of these conditions. That's the reason for the Department's emphasis on swimming pool sanitation. Swimmers, too, have a responsibility toward pool cleanliness. Like most public places, a pool quickly assumes the character of its least desirable patron. But when state and local health authorities, pool operators, and pool patrons join hands to make swimming what it should be -- wholesome, safe, and fun -- the results can be highly beneficial. That kind of cooperation is now going on throughout Texas.

CAMERON

As Goldie Hawn and William Atherton, a fugitive couple, hold a gun on Michael Sacks, the highway patrol officer begins a drive across the state of Texas that will make headlines in the Zanuck/Brown production of a real life story, "The Sugarland Express." The Universal picture was photographed in Technicolor and Panavision and shot on actual locales in Texas.

Split Season Set For Ducks, Geese

A second consecutive year of split duck and goose season was set for most of Texas by Parks and Wildlife Commissioners in their August meeting.

Acting with federally approved migratory waterfowl hunting frameworks the commissioners established a 65-day duck season in the High Plains Mallard Management Unit of Texas for Nov. 4-24 and Dec. 7, 1974-Jan. 19, 1975.

A 58-day duck season was set for the rest of Texas: Nov. 9-24 and Dec. 9, 1974-Jan. 19, 1975.

The 100-plus point system was modified somewhat for this season:

--100 - point ducks - Canvasbacks and redheaded ducks.

--70 - point ducks - Mallard hens, wood ducks and hooded mergansers.

--15 - point ducks - Bluewing and cinnamon teal, pintails, widgeons, gadwalls, scaups, shovelers and mergansers except hooded.

--35 - point ducks - All other species and sexes (to include mallard drakes, green-winged teal and mottled ducks).

The season remains closed on New Mexican ducks, black-bellied and fulvous tree ducks.

As was the case last year, canvasbacks and redheads may not be hunted in the coastal counties of Aransas, Brazoria, Calhoun, Cameron, Chambers, Galveston, Harris, Jackson, Jefferson, Kenedy, Kleberg, Matagorda, Nueces, Refugio, San Patricio and Willacy.

For that portion of Texas lying east of U. S. Hwy 81, commissioners set a 72-day goose season to run Oct. 28-Nov. 24, 1974; Dec. 7, 1974 - Jan. 19, 1975.

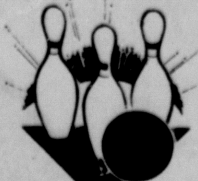

Bag and possession limits for this eastern portion of the state are five geese to include not more than one Canada or one white-fronted goose.

The possession limit can include no more than two Canada geese or one white-fronted goose, or one of each.

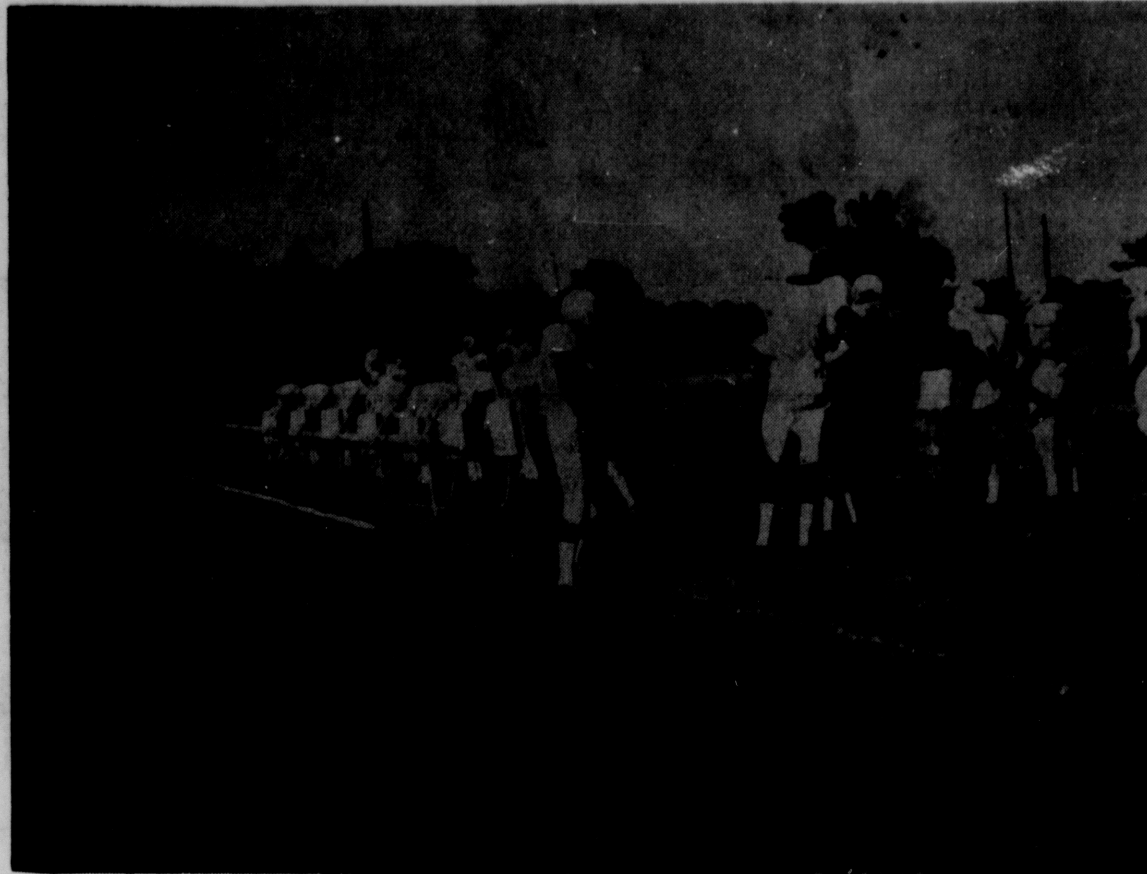

In that part of Texas to the west of U. S. Hwy. 81, an unbroken 93-day season was set for Oct. 19, 1974-Jan. 19, 1975. A daily bag limit of two birds was set; possession limit of four geese to include not more than one Ross' goose.

Sandhill or little brown crane seasons remain much the same as last year for the two parts of northwest Texas in which they can be hunted.

YOEMEN pause a moment during practice.

Yoe Continues Daily Drills

The Yoemen began one-a-day workouts Monday in the second week of pre-school grid practices at Yoe Field.

Head coach Ed Cauley continued to direct workouts for about 90 players for varsity, junior varsity and freshman squads.

First varsity game is a home opener here Friday, September 6.

Cauley and a six-man staff continue to drill the 1974 edition into physical shape. He was not releasing any starting designations.

But Bryan Cobb, Willie

Bell and Bruce Zarosky have been named tri-captains of the varsity. All three were lettermen and starters on the 1973 club.

Cameron is rated second to Hearne as pre-season favorites to win a 23-AA championship. Hearne was a three-A district winner last year.

At presstime, the varsity and junior varsity roster continued to be:

Smitherman, Jim Kohutek, Harry Brooks, Ronnie Bennett and Gary Hornung.

And, Mark Fritz, Donald Komar, Aaron Miller, Eddie Dodd, Dennis Butler, Clay Kruse, David Kornegay, Jim Chandler, Phillip Tindall, Tony Stinnett, David Delony and Fredrick Lewis.

Also, Jeff Smitherman, Kenneth Scott, Joe Mondrik, Randy Sapp, Gene Kopriva, Brian Wilkinson, Bruce Zarosky, Willie Bell, Gary Trdy, Stanley Manner, Jafus White, Dennis Hollas, Troy Daniels, James McCullin, James Pair and Joe Schmidt.

And, Carl Bradley, Robert Mailer, Mike Barr, Julian Martinez, Bob Terry, John Roberts, Ysidaro Tamez, Bill Hughes, James Walker, Donald Lindeman, Richard Raymond and Sam Green.

Bull Shark Record Broken Off Coast

It took one hour for Dan Countiss of Corpus Christi to land a Texas State Fish Record bull shark July 21.

Caught on the snapper banks off Port Aransas, Countiss' shark weighed 496 pounds, was 11 feet long and 56 1/2 inches in girth.

The previous record for a bull shark taken off the Texas coast was a 403 1/2 pounder that was nine feet long.

QUICKIES:

With SWC football training camps breaking open, let's speculate:

Who will be the best line-backer in the Southwest Conference? Probably Dede Terveen, the TCU hoss out of Donna at 6-2 and 240. Dede has the Pros drooling for first time in awhile. Houston - area Pasadena will have two Southwest Superstuds, Bryan Willingham the Houston U. Split-end and Arkansas Quarterback Mike Kirkland. Since Darrell Royal's UT recruiting success among Blacks has improved greatly, one of his latest moves has the opposition nervous. Darrell recently hired Lufkin's Bill Lyons, an intelligent, articulate young man with Orange Blood, to his Longhorn staff. Lyons, one-time UT basketball recruit, you see, is the second Black

Coach hired at Texas in '74.

When SMU Coach Dave Smith sends Henry Sheppard, his 6-6, 240-pound offensive tackle into the fray, this fall, he'll be dialing the number of one of his area grads. Smith grew up in Lockhart, of course, latest report from Darrell Royal, on the chances of Roosevelt Leaks playing in 1975. "I'm very pessimistic. Maybe, but I still think he cannot do it," says the UT Boss about his knee-scarred All - America fullback.

Helsman Trophy Candidates? There are those who believe Junior Texas Aggie half-back Bubba Bean has a good shot at it before leaving College Station, know a player Oklahoma is going to miss in '74? Kenith Pope, an unheralded Coner-back out of Galveston Ball, has been an unbelievable performer in the Sooner defensive network the past two years. But, with the Selmons, Choates, etc around the 6-2, 200 pounder was little noticed.

Wardens See More People Than Boat

If there's one thing Texas Parks and Wildlife Department game wardens are used to in Galveston County, it's water safety violations.

But back in July game wardens who thought they had seen everything in this category were set back on the heels of their boots.

Wardens Bill Spasic of La Margue and James Green of Texas City were patrolling Clear Creek in Galveston County and along came a new 17-foot outboard - with 19 people aboard.

When the boat came into a ramp, the wardens found that seven of the 19 passengers were children under 12, none of whom were wearing life jackets. That is a water safety violation.

To compound matters, only five life preservers were in the boat, making the boat 14 preservers short since law requires that one life-saving device be on board for each occupant.

And there was no fire extinguisher.

Wardens Spasic and Green returned to the P&W district law enforcement office shortly after the incident for a fresh supply of citation forms.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

If you are looking through the classified section of your newspaper, sooner or later you're sure to run across an ad that reads something like this:

"Business opportunity! New firm expanding into this area needs distributor for national product. No selling required. Earn $20,000 a year working part-time! Proven investment returns. Call Mr. Wonder."

If you respond to this or similar ads, there's a chance you could become the object of a misleading sales pitch for a less-than-profitable distributorship. The sales routine for such a deceptive offer generally follows this pattern:

Obituaries

Funeral was at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at Hoelscher Funeral Home with Minister Calvin Prince officiating. Burial was in Clover Hill Cemetery in Lott.

Mrs. Collins had lived in Lott since 1962.

Surviving are a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mary Collins of Waco; two brothers, John and Roy Golings of Missouri; a sister, Mrs. Hazel Baugh of Knox City, Mo.; and two grandsons.

Lavan

John Lavan II of Milano died Saturday in Newton, Kan.

Funeral was Wednesday at the Goodwill Baptist Church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Essie Lavan; two daughters, Mrs. Joyce N. Thomas of California and Mrs. Ernestine Thompson of Michigan; and three sons, John Lavan of Temple, Willie Lavan of Cameron and Lee Ray Lavan of Houston.

L. D. Dorsey Funeral Home of Cameron was in charge.

Tijerina

Mrs. Felisita T. Tijerina, 88, of Rosebud died Friday night in a Rosebud hospital after a long illness.

Rosary was at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at Green Funeral Home in Rosebud. Funeral was at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Ann's Catholic Church in Rosebud, the Rev. Leonard Leddy officiating. Burial was in the Sacred Heart Cemetery in Rosebud.

Mrs. Tijerina lived in Terry's Chapel Community in Falls County for more than 50 years. She moved to Rosebud in 1942 after the death of her husband.

Surviving are three daughters, Miss Victoria Tijerina and Mrs. Aurara T. Tijerina of Lubbock, Charlie Tijerina of Killeen, Otto Tijerina of Austin and Maximo Tijerina of Bryan, a sister, Mrs. Carmen Garcia of Fort Worth; a brother, Ray Trigo of Richmond; 34 grandchildren and 56 great-grandchildren.

Mr. Wonder comes to your house or sends a sales representative to explain the distributorship investment opportunity. The product to be distributed may be anything from film to children's books to vending machines that dispense freeze-dried coffee or soup.

Very likely, you will be shown lavish colored photographs and brochures of the product designed to impress you with the fact that large amounts of money can be made with little effort. The salesman of such a product as vending machines may get you to agree that such a machine will sell at least 15 units of the product a day.

"But let's be conservative," he may say. "Suppose it sells only 10 units a day. Even at that, you can make $1400 a month if you purchase 10 machines and they earn 50 cents on each sale."

After describing the profitable machine locations provided by the company, the salesman will urge you to sign a contract immediately to take advantage of the fantastic offer for only $2000. When you sign, you may be told that a locator will call a few days after your machines are delivered to tell you the spots at which they will be placed.

So your machines are delivered, your money paid. After what may vary from a few days to never, the locator comes by with a list of locations for your machines and has you sign a form stating that locations have been provided and are acceptable.

Later, when you survey the location, you may find that your soup dispensing machine is located in the back of a beauty salon or service station where there is little public traffic.

Very seldom will you get a profitable location, so naturally, there is little chance for a return on your investment - no monthly income without effort.

If you complain to the company, you may be told that an attempt will be made to sell your distributorship to someone else. Chances are good, of course, that you will never get your money back.

Experiences such as this may be an exception, for there are many reputable firms engaged in the sale of distributorships, but they are occurring frequently enough that they have become a matter of concern for Attorneys General in all states.

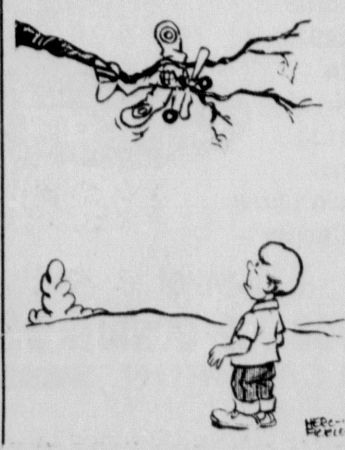

Our Consumer Protection attorneys indicate that there are literally millions of dollars in distributorship contracts being written nationwide with many of the persons who purchase them receiving almost no return on their investment.

FRANKLY, WHAT'S A FRANK?

A "frank" by any other name is still an old favorite, even if it's called a "frankfurter," "weiner," "hot dog," or "furter." Look to the new labels to tell you what you're buying.

Those products made from muscle meats must be labeled with one of the generic names, such as frankfurter, etc. If all the meat is from one particular source, the product must be labeled accordingly, such as beef frankfurters. Those products made with some meat by-products, such as heart, tripe, tongue, etc., must be labeled as such. For example, "frankfurters with by-products" or "franks with variety meats."

Still further, those products with up to 3.5% binders, such as nonfat dry milk, cereals or dried whole milk, or up to 2% soy protein, must be labeled, such as "franks with by-products, nonfat dry milk added," etc. All franks will have seasonings added to produce their distinctive taste. Read the label and be sure of what you are buying.

Franks can be safely stored in the coldest part of your refrigerator for up to two weeks. They are economical and nutritious and nearly everyone likes them. These old favorites are especially good at a picnic, charcoaled, barbecued or smothered in chili. They are perfect for a quick summer or school time lunch, but they can also be an economical basis for the family dinner. Try them in a frankly fancy way such as this one.
